

Microlocal Analysis of RADAR

C. Nolan

University of Limerick, Ireland

Microlocal analysis is a powerful mathematical tool that has developed as a refinement of geometrical optics. We will introduce it and show how to use it to analyze the scattering of radio waves (RADAR) from the earth's terrain, and how it can be used to efficiently image the earth remotely.