

Apparently Abnormal Satellite Thermal Signals of Infrared Band as a Thermal Plateau on the Sea Surface

S. Nakamura

Kyoto University-Retired/Geophysical Advisor, Japan

The author has had studied about the thermal pattern as a thermal plateau or a pinnacle which was obtained by a directly monitoring of the satellite signals. A dynamical model is introduced for realizing this thermo plateau on the sea surface. A supporting thermal pattern is shown as well as the related meteorological data.